Mike Tomlin Head Coach

In his 12 seasons as head coach for the Pittsburgh Steelers, Tomlin accomplished many things that have never been done in the team's storied history. A franchise known for stability at the head coaching position, Tomlin ranks among the League's longest-tenured head coaches following the 2018 season.

Tomlin became the youngest head coach in NFL history to both coach in and win a Super Bowl when he led the Steelers to a 27-23 victory over the Arizona Cardinals in Super Bowl XLIII (36 years, 323 days). By winning the Super Bowl in only his second season as a head coach, he also became the fastest to win a Super Bowl title in Steelers history.

In his 12 years as head coach of the Steelers, Tomlin has led Pittsburgh to six AFC North titles, most recently in 2017, and has guided the Steelers to the playoffs eight times, including two trips to the Super Bowl (XLIII and XLV). Tomlin has won at least five home games in each of his first 12 years, including five at Heinz Field in 2018.

Tomlin has sent a total of 56 selections to the NFL's annual Pro Bowl, including the six players who received Pro Bowl honors for the 2018 season. Additionally, Tomlin was appointed by Commissioner Roger Goodell to the NFL's Competition Committee in March 2013.

Tomlin is one of only eight coaches in League history to win a Super Bowl within his first two seasons as an NFL head coach. He is the only head coach in Steelers history to lead the team to two Super Bowls in his first four seasons at the helm, including an appearance against the Green Bay Packers in Super Bowl XLV. He is one of only two Steelers head coaches to win three division titles in his first four seasons.

Tomlin has led Pittsburgh to a 125-66-1 record in the regular season since becoming the team's head coach in 2007 - the second-best record in the NFL during that time span. His 125-66-1 regular-season record (.654) is the best start in franchise history. Tomlin reached 125 career wins in the fewest games (192) in team history, tying him with Bud Grant for the fifth-fewest games by an NFL head coach to secure 125 regular season wins. He is the third head coach in NFL history with 125 or more regular-season wins in their first 12 seasons as a head coach, joining Don Shula: 128 and Tony Dungy: 127.

Over the past five seasons (2013-18), Tomlin has led the team to a 22-6 record in the month of December/January.

Tomlin is very active in the community and was recognized, along with his wife Kiya, in February 2013, by the Chuck Cooper Foundation with the Career Achievement in Leadership Diversity and Community Service Award. Tomlin also participates in the annual ManUp Pittsburgh conference which encourages local men to be better fathers and role models.

Tomlin led the Steelers to a record of 9-6-1 in 2018, becoming one of five head coaches in NFL history to begin a head coaching tenure with 12 consecutive non-losing seasons. With a Week 5 win against Atlanta, he and quarterback Ben Roethlisberger broke a tie with Chuck Noll and Terry Bradshaw for the most wins by a head coach-quarterback tandem in franchise history. The duo's 115 regular-season wins are the fourth-most by a head coach-quarterback pairing in NFL history.

Roethlisberger set single-season franchise records for touchdown passes (34), pass completions (452) and passing yards (5,129) in 2018, while leading all NFL players in pass completions and passing yardage. Wide receiver Antonio Brown led the NFL with a single-season franchise record 15 touchdown catches. Brown and second-year wide receiver JuJu Smith-Schuster also made history, becoming the sixth wide receiver duo in NFL history and first in Steelers history to record 100 receptions and 1,000 yards apiece in a single season. Smith-Schuster was voted Team MVP for his breakout year.

With Tomlin at the helm, six Steelers were named to the Pro Bowl for their 2018 performances – the third consecutive season with at least five selections. Brown, running back James Conner, defensive tackle Cameron Heyward and offensive linemen DeCastro, Maurkice Pouncey and Villanueva all received Pro Bowl accolades.

In 2017, Tomlin led the Steelers to a 13-3 record, including a 6-0 sweep of the AFC North, securing his sixth division title and a No. 2 seed in the AFC for the postseason. The team's 13 wins marks the most wins in a single season in the Tomlin era.

Under Tomlin's guidance, Roethlisberger became the eighth quarterback in NFL history to reach 50,000 passing yards, finishing the season with a career total of 51,065. Brown was voted team MVP for his outstanding performance and became the first Steeler to earn the honor four times (2011, '13, '15 and '17). Brown led the league with 1,533 receiving yards and set an NFL record for the most receptions (582) and receiving yards (7,848) by a player in any five-year span in League history. For the second straight season, running back Le'Veon Bell led the AFC in scrimmage yards per game (129.7) and surpassed his own Steelers single-season record for receptions by a running back with 85. Defensively, the team led the NFL and set a Steelers single-season record with 56 sacks in 2017.

For their efforts, Roethlisberger, Brown and Bell were named to the Pro Bowl along with kicker Chris Boswell, linebacker Ryan Shazier, and offensive linemen DeCastro, Maurkice Pouncey and Villanueva. Brown, Bell and DeCastro were also named AP All-Pro, along with Heyward. Heyward and fullback Roosevelt Nix were also added to the Pro Bowl roster prior to the game.

The Steelers finished with an 11-5 record in 2016, and won each of the team's final seven regular-season games, to secure the AFC North title and No. 3 seed in the AFC for the postseason. It marked the fifth time Tomlin led the Steelers to at least 11 wins in the regular season. Pittsburgh won its first two postseason games, vs. Miami in an AFC Wild Card Game and at Kansas City in an AFC Divisional Playoff, before falling to the New England Patriots in the AFC Championship Game.

Bell was voted the Steelers' MVP for his 2016 efforts. He led the NFL in scrimmage yards per game (157.0), and he became the fastest player in NFL history to reach 3,000 rushing yards and 1,500 receiving yards in his career (38 games). In the Steelers' Week 14 victory at Buffalo in 2016, Bell set the single-game team record with 236 rushing yards and tied the single-game team mark with three rushing touchdowns.

Roethlisberger and Brown continued to etch their names in NFL history. Roethlisberger finished the season with the ninth-most passing touchdowns in NFL history (301) and the 10th-most passing yards in NFL history (46,814). Brown set numerous NFL records, including one for the most receptions in a player's first 100 career regular-season games (622) and one for the most receptions in NFL history by a player in any four-year span (481).

Tomlin also reached his 100th career win in 2016 and did so in the fewest games (157) in team history. He became the eighth head coach in NFL history to reach 100 regular-season wins in their first 10 seasons.

Despite significant injuries to multiple starters during the 2015 season, the Steelers finished with a 10-6 record (2nd in the AFC North) and advanced to the Divisional Round of the playoffs. The Steelers finished third in the NFL in total offense (1st in the AFC), while the defense posted 48 sacks under first-year defensive coordinator Keith Butler. The 48 sacks were the third most in the NFL in 2015.

In 2014, Tomlin orchestrated one of the top offensive outputs in team history. The Steelers broke numerous offensive records, including points scored (436), total yards (6,577), passing yards/game (301.6) and total first downs (379). On an individual basis in 2014, Tomlin guided Roethlisberger, Brown and Bell – who all made the Pro Bowl – to record-setting years.

Arguably one of his best coaching performances may have come in the second half of the 2013 season. Despite an 0-4 and 2-6 start to the season, the Steelers finished the regular season surging to a 6-2 second-half record, falling just short of the playoffs.

In 2012, Tomlin led the Steelers to a 27-10 victory over the New York Jets in the home opener, becoming the first coach in team history to win his first six home openers. The Steelers finished the season with the top-ranked overall defense (275.8 yards/game) and finished first in passing defense (185.2 yards/game).

In 2011, Tomlin led the Steelers to a 12-4 record, marking the second straight season the team posted 12 wins, which was only the second time in team history it had been achieved. The Steelers finished the season with the top-ranked total defense (271.8 ypg) and scoring defense (14.2 ppg). Pittsburgh posted a 7-1 record at home in 2011, for the second time in Tomlin's career (2007). He also had five players (Roethlisberger, Mike Wallace, Pouncey, Troy Polamalu and Brown) selected to the Pro Bowl following the season.

Tomlin's seven road wins during the 2010 regular season tied a Steelers record previously set in 1978 and 2004. The Steelers finished second in total defense under Tomlin's guidance in 2010, allowing only 276.8 yards per game. Pittsburgh led the NFL and set a team record in rushing defense, yielding only 62.8 yards per game (1,004 yards), the third-best total in NFL history dating back to 1970. The Steelers also established an NFL record in 2010 by not allowing an opponent to rush for more than 75 yards in any of their first eight games during the regular season.

In all, the Steelers' defense led the NFL in 2010 in rushing yards allowed (62.8 yds./game), points allowed (232), touchdowns (22), quarterback sacks (48), rushing average (3.0), yards per play (4.5) and yards allowed on first down (4.08). It finished second in the league in passing average (6.31), turnover advantage (+14) and red-zone efficiency (40.0, tied).

Under Tomlin, the Steelers broke new ground on offense in 2009. Pittsburgh's offense ranked seventh in the NFL (ninth passing, 19th rushing) but became the first unit in team history to boast a 4,000-yard passer (Roethlisberger), two 1,000-yard receivers (Hines Ward, Santonio Holmes) and a 1,000-yard rusher (Rashard Mendenhall) in the same season. Pittsburgh's defense ranked fifth in the NFL (third vs. run, 16th vs. pass) while leading the AFC and finishing one shy of the NFL lead with 47 quarterback sacks.

The Steelers continued to be dominant at Heinz Field under Tomlin in 2009. Pittsburgh finished with a 6-2 home record after finishing 7-1 (2007) and 6-2 (2008) at home during Tomlin's first two seasons.

Tomlin finished the 2008 season with a 12-4 record and his second consecutive AFC North Division title, becoming the only Steelers head coach to win division crowns in each of his first two seasons. He also set a record with 22 regular-season wins in his first two years at the helm and is the only Steelers head coach to win at least 10 games in each of his first two seasons. Tomlin's .688 winning percentage (22-10) after two years is the best in Steelers history.

The Steelers' defense was dominant under Tomlin's guidance in 2008, leading the NFL in total defense (237.2), pass defense (156.9), points per game (13.9), total yards per play (3.9), rushing yards per attempt (3.3), passing yards per attempt (4.7) and third-down efficiency (31.4), while finishing second in rushing defense (80.3).

Tomlin led the Steelers to a 10-6 record in 2007 and became just the second coach in team history to post a winning record, win a division title and earn a playoff berth in his inaugural season. Tomlin began his head coaching career by becoming only the second Steelers head coach to win his first three games. During 2007, the Steelers became just the fifth team in NFL history to win their first four home games by at least 20 points.

Tomlin guided the Steelers to the NFL's top-ranked defense in 2007, yielding only 266.4 yards per game. The Steelers' defense ranked third in the NFL against both the run (89.9 avg.) and the pass (176.5 avg.), and finished third in the league in total yards allowed per play (4.6). Pittsburgh's defense led the NFL in passing yards per play (5.7) and first downs allowed per game (15.6), and finished second in the league in points allowed per game (16.8).
The Steelers' offense finished third in the NFL in rushing (135.5 avg.) during Tomlin's first season, sparked by Willie Parker, who led the league in rushing before injuring his leg in Week 16. Roethlisberger enjoyed a record-setting season during Tomlin's first year, establishing new team records for touchdown passes (32) and passer rating (104.1) while earning his first career Pro Bowl appearance.

Tomlin was the NFL's second-youngest head coach in 2007, and he became only the second Steelers coach in team history to win at least 10 games during his first year at the helm. The Steelers posted a 7-1 record at home in 2007 and were 5-1 in the AFC North (3-0 at home).

Tomlin spent the 2006 season as the Minnesota Vikings' defensive coordinator. That season, the Vikings ranked eighth in the NFL in total defense and first against the run while not allowing a 100-yard rusher the entire season.

Tomlin was the defensive backs coach with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers from 2001-05. In 2002, Tomlin guided one of the most productive defensive backfields in the NFL, culminating with its performance in Super Bowl XXXVII. The secondary recorded four of the team's five interceptions, returning two for touchdowns, to help Tampa Bay capture the franchise's first Super Bowl title.

Before joining Tampa Bay's staff, Tomlin served two seasons as the defensive backs coach at the University of Cincinnati (1999-00). He took over a secondary that ranked 111th in the nation in pass defense in 1998 and helped them improve to 61st overall in his first season. Under Tomlin's direction in 2000, the Bearcats ranked eighth in the nation in interceptions as well as fourth nationally in total turnovers.

Prior to joining the Cincinnati staff, Tomlin had a short stint on the coaching staff at Tennessee-Martin and then spent two seasons at Arkansas State, coaching wide receivers in 1997 before switching to defensive backs in 1998.

Tomlin spent the 1996 season as a graduate assistant at the University of Memphis, where he worked with the Tiger defensive backs and special teams units. He began his coaching career in 1995 as wide receivers coach at Virginia Military Institute.

Tomlin was a three-year starter at wide receiver at William & Mary (1990-94) and finished his career with 101 receptions for 2,054 yards and 20 touchdown catches. A first-team All-Yankee Conference selection in 1994, he established a school record with a 20.2 yards-per-catch average.

Head Coach: Mike Tomlin: January 2, 2019

Good afternoon. Obviously, this is not our usual business. Definitely did not anticipate standing here and having an end-of-season press conference this week, or specifically today, but there are reasons for that that I will outline some of that and talk about some of the things moving forward so that we are not here in this position at this time of year. Obviously, there is big disappointment that comes with this but before I get into some of that I do want to work within the normal framework and outline this past week and that game, the performance and so forth. It was a unique week for us. We had to do our business in-stadium and also some other dominos had to fall. We talked openly about it last week in terms of us having the ability to focus and do that. It was challenging, guys did what was necessary and won the game but within the game there were some things that were problems for us that had been problems for us. We had a big turnover in the first half, I thought that was the significant play in the first half of the game. The guys continued to fight to make the necessary plays. We were juggling some people and so forth from a role standpoint. Can't say enough about Matt [McCrane], the kicker we acquired last week. He came up big, we awarded him the game ball and appropriately so contributing to our efforts in the ways that he did. Also, just kind of leading up to the game and since the game I know there has been a lot of speculation and discussion regarding A.B.'s [Antonio Brown] participation, or non-participation in the game. I want to re-outline that, what transpired up until the time we talked on Friday and then what transpired after that. I'll start, last week I met with you guys Friday after practice, I outlined what transpired with A.B. to that point, all of those things are very accurate, I'll re-outline it for you. He came in on Wednesday and expressed soreness in his lower body, feet, ankles, knees specifically, a knee. It was no big deal from that perspective, it happens some with veteran players. I give them a day off, I work younger guys, it's not only about their protection and preservation but it's also about the growth and development of younger guys. I've done it at the quarterback position routinely this year just about every week, very rarely does Ben [Roethlisberger] work on a Wednesday. I do it at the center position with Maurkice Pouncey. I do it at the guard position on Thursday with Ramon Foster, to name a few. I've done it at the wide out position in the past when A.B. was young. It was a big day for him because it wasn't a big day for a guy like Hines Ward so that was not a big deal for us. We came in on Thursday, he expressed he continued to feel that discomfort. Again, given the fact that this was the Cincinnati Bengals, a second time a divisional opponent in terms of the familiarity again, it wasn't anything to ring the alarm bells about. We work younger people. I listed him on the injury report that day with the knee he described. On Friday, Friday is kind of the witching hour. Situational football and things of that nature in terms of readiness for the game. When he came in and expressed discomfort in his knee on Friday, and the fact he would not be able to participate on Friday, that is when we sent him to get an MRI. At that time, I instructed after he gets the MRI to go home and get off his feet and low lay and that I would communicate with him Friday evening and we would plot out our course of action from there. Again, under normal circumstances guys that [don't] participate in Friday's practice that essentially potentially removes them participation in the game unless they are a veteran guy who we have great deal of comfort in in terms of execution and detail like A.B. and we have an opponent that we are familiar with, second time around like a divisional opponent Cincinnati. So, wanted to leave the light on in terms of participation. That was the nature of our conversation. That is what I outlined to you after practice, that is why we listed him as questionable for the game. Then, after Friday's business was done, it became difficult to communicate and catch up with him. I was not able to communicate with him Friday evening or Saturday morning so when we had our Saturday morning mock game or walk-through, and we hadn't communicated with him, then it became something altogether different. We decided to focus our energy on the guys that were working and prepared to work and present. So, those are the guys that we prepared to play in the football game. Woke up Sunday morning and got a call from his agent, Drew Rosenhaus. Drew expressed that he was feeling better and we would potentially be able to participate. I outlined to Drew that decisions weren't made like that, but I would be interested in visiting with him in person at the stadium prior to the game but playing wasn't on the menu so Drew relayed that to him. I met with A.B. prior to the game, he asked what he can do, I said the best thing he can do in terms of helping us win the game is be there in support of his teammates. He agreed to do that. We had a general conversation about his overall health. I sent him to the training staff to visit with those guys who obviously were at the stadium readying people for play and that was the last conversation he and I had. I subsequently saw him in the bowl, in-stadium during pre-game warm-ups, things of that nature. But as the game began to unfold, obviously, I get occupied with the things that are at hand. I hear that he left the stadium, I don't confirm that because again I was concentered around the guys that were performing in-stadium and things of that nature. So, that's an outline of what transpired from my perspective, our perspective.

I just wanted to add some real teeth to that discussion and outline it for you. I am sure there are subsequent questions, I would be happy to address those, but I just wanted to outline that in reference to the Bengals game because obviously it was an element of evaluating last week and preparation and I'll also add that there were a lot of things going on regarding player availability in preparation for the game. We experienced a kicking change that I described and outlined with Bos [Chris Boswell] dealing with a groin. He dealt with a groin on Sunday in New Orleans, he was able to get treatment and perform. His next significant day after that was Thursday. He performed but didn't have a level of comfort, we didn't have a level on comfort, we had worked Matt [McCrane] so we got Matt in motion. That was ongoing and obviously Matt's infusion into the process and overall readiness and on Friday and Saturday getting a sense of what it is he needed to perform became dominant in terms of some of our side discussions. What hash he would need the ball on, what were his capabilities, how could we offset some areas of his play that needed to be offset with coverage, etc. James Conner was fighting to get back and with some positive and negative results on the way his availability was not determined until a pregame workout. Sean Davis was another guy that was fighting. It became evident that Sean [Davis] was not able to participate after the result of Friday's workout when he came in on Saturday, the result of that work was not a positive thing. Oftentimes when we're in this setting we talk about work leading us to play but also the result of that work, he's an example of he came in on Saturday morning and you could just tell the arrow wasn't moving up in terms of his availability. So, there were a couple availability things going on significant availability things, the Antonio [Brown] discussion was not one that was transpired in a vacuum. More than anything, if I could describe it, there was a lack of communication and I was an active participant in that to be quite honest with you because I was singularly focused on those playing the game, the health of those that were preparing to play the game and overall readiness as we push forward toward the stadium and specifically in the last 24-48 hours, some things relative to the kicking aspect of the game. The things involving Matt [McCrane] and his accumulation to us.

Now largely I'll take a step back and talk about the season. Extremely disappointed, I think that's the assessment of it. The fact that we are actually standing in this room says it all. It's not what we intended to do, it's not what we embrace, it's not what we accept. We better work our tails off to ensure that we are not having this conversation. I know those were our intentions, but intentions are just part of it. Actions, planning, and changes are all apart of addressing circumstances such as the circumstances that we are in. Being in this position affords us a lot of opportunity in terms of time to assess. Oftentimes when you go deep into the playoffs you are getting onto a moving train, whatever it may be in terms of 2019, the acquisition of coach and talent, the look at free agency and draft, so forth and that nature. Well we're out at the first exit so we will have additional time. We better utilize that time. We met this morning as a staff, I talked openly about dwelling in it, being where we are, doing a really good job of being accountable and assessing what has transpired and analyzing what has transpired.

Before we even get into the task of plotting out '19 and the things that come with it, just not going to be bashful about that. When you lack success, when you fail, change is a part of it. We talked about it, as a staff we talked about it, as players, and in an exit interview, our exit meetings, that's just our business. You can look around our business and see and recognize and it breaks that element of it. That's why it's great scarcity, that's why these moments are what they are, that is why we have to live them to the fullest. So, yes, change is going to be a part moving forward. What those things will be, we are in the process of gathering information and plotting out a course. We are not going to be resistant to change in any facet. We're not going to be resistant to accountability in any facet. We are not going to be resistant to taking ownership over what has transpired because that is not conducive to us moving forward and we will do that at the appropriate time but part of moving forward is just waddling in it right now to be quite honest with you. We are going to waddle and meet, talk, plan and perceive. Part of that plan of perceiving and so forth, health is an element of it. We're just kind of scratching the surface in terms of some of those things as well. There are potential surgeries, or pending surgeries, and assessments from a medical standpoint. That will be on-going in subsequent days and weeks. We have to proceed appropriately and aggressively in those areas because you can't allow surgeries and the recoveries and so forth to negatively affect the foundation or preparation of 2019 when you can avoid it so we are doing some things in that areas, but we are doing things in a lot of areas. There are a lot of irons in the fire, appropriately so, associated with wrapping a bow around 2018 and laying a foundation for 2019 so that's the framework.

Have you spoken with Antonio Brown and how do you resolve it?
I haven't spoken with him since I had the meeting with him prior to the game at the stadium on Sunday. Obviously, I am going to address it. We are going to address him and the circumstance. But to be quite honest with you we are going to information-gather and use all the time at our disposal in which to do so. I was hopeful that time would be more of an essence in terms of dealing with him and his circumstances. I was hoping that we would be working this week, but we are not and because we are not we are going to information[-gather] and handle it like we do in all circumstances. We are going to deal with it appropriately, we are going to handle it in-house and I am sure you will hear about the intimate details. But because we are not playing a game this week it hasn't been addressed to this point.

Do you view this petulance from Antonio Brown?
Like I said last week, the circumstances being what they were and the amount of things we were going through, there wasn't a lot of communication there. Obviously, we take his lack of communication, his lack of presence, particularly on Saturday prior to the game, to be something that is significant and be handled appropriately. So, I am not going to speculate on trades and things of that nature. We haven't formally received a request in that regard, so I am not going to speculate. I am not going to speculate in terms of where the discipline might go and things of that nature, just know it is going to be addressed and will be addressed and it needs to be addressed for obvious reasons.

Re: Please clarify Antonio Brown's absence from the game:
He was absent due to injury and lack of information. When he did not show up on Saturday, and I didn't know the extent of his injury, I made the decision at that time, regardless of how he felt at any point, that we were moving on and getting singularly focused on preparing to play the game. When he woke up on Sunday and felt better and Drew [Rosenhaus] reached out and expressed that, I expressed to Drew that playing was not on the table because we had to draw a line in the dirt in terms of getting our group ready to play and make the last-minute preparations and so forth. So, it was about his health, or lack of information relative to his health, in terms of determining his availability. That's why he was listed on the injury report. That's why he was listed on the injury report in the manner of which he was listed.

Is that behavior acceptable enough that if Cleveland won the game, Antonio [Brown] would be playing this week?
Again, I would be addressing it in the timeframe in terms of urgency differently than I'm addressing it right now had we been playing, and that's all I'm going to say on it other than that because when you're not under time constraints, then you approach things in a very different approach in terms of how you address the information that you gather and the extent of which you discuss it.

Did he go through with the MRI?
He did not. On Friday he did not, but again, when I talked to you guys on Friday, I was not aware of that.

It was scheduled, he just didn't go through with it.
Correct.

What was your reaction to his agent being the one getting back to you instead of him?
We had a game to play, and so I was focused on the guys preparing to play the game. I wasn't wasting a lot of my time assessing that element of it. I knew there would be time for that on the other side of the game and I was hopeful that I was going to be dealing with that in a very aggressive manner because time on the other side of the game was going to be tight. But as we played the game and things unfolded in which they did, then it became evident that unfortunately, time was not going to be an element of addressing it and so subsequently, that's why I stand before you with less answers in regard to that scenario.

Can you envision a trade of Antonio Brown?
Again, I'm not going to speculate in terms of things that I can envision. I'm just not.

Do you have any reason to doubt the veracity of him saying he had soreness in his knee?
I don't.

Given that Antonio didn't have communication with you on Saturday before the game, how challenging would it be to depend on him going forward?
Again, I'm not speculating on what life is going to be like going forward. What I am going to do is address the circumstances and then move on from there.

Things seem to keep popping up with A.B. [Brown] even outside of this building. Does it reach a point where he's more problematic than usefully?
Certainly.

Was there any issue with Ben Roethlisberger and Antonio at practice that you are aware of?
I'm sure there are situations and conversations and disagreements that go on, professionally speaking, all the time, but not anything of any significance that would produce the conversation that we're having or something that we'd need to overcome in the manner in which we're discussing.

In the wake of this, your players have talked about a lack of trust, a bond of trust being broken, letting your brothers down, mending has the be done – is this the proper context?
Absolutely, when we're talking about our darkest hour, we're talking about playing to win a game and needing other dominos to fall for us to be in the tournament and a guy not communicating, that is a real element of discussion, certainly.
Did he quit on this team?
You know, you can describe it in whatever ways you want to describe it, but there was a lack of communication there that can lead to thoughts and things of that nature that can go in many directions. The bottom line is we were playing a significant game and he didn't do a good enough job of communicating, of being available in the hours leading up to that performance, so we needed to make decisions pertinent to getting prepared to play in that performance. I've been really clear about outlining what transpired, the level of communication and things of that nature, so obviously there are some things within that that you can infer.

Many players talked at length about a lack of chemistry. What role do you play in fostering that?
Man, I accept responsibility and I foster and develop every aspect of our culture. That's this game. That's leadership. You embrace and respect and honor all aspects of that, certainly.

Is there a point where you have to step back and look at the way your coaching your team and be more of a disciplinarian?
Certainly, I think that you're always taking a step back, and when I'm talking about taking a step back and wallowing in it, I'm not only talking about those that play and those that coach in there; I start with the thumb. Most certainly, you're not going to routinely do the same thing and expect results to change. The fact that we're having this meeting, this press conference today, tell you that that line of thinking is very necessary for all parties involved and starting with me.

What was it like dealing with more distractions this season, especially towards the end?
You know, distractions and things of that nature are part of the job, particularly in today's NFL. I don't run away from it, as a matter of fact, I embrace it. I never use those things as an excuse in terms of our performance and things of that nature. That's just not how I'm wired. So, I don't talk a lot about that during the course of the journey. Is it challenging? Certainly. Am I appropriately compensated for those challenges? Certainly. When you get tired of those challenges, when you wear the whistle and you stand at the podium, you need to find a new line of work. I just don't have that sentiment. That's why I embrace it in the ways that I do, not that I like it, not that it's enjoyable. It's not, but I'm not running, and I'm certainly not seeking comfort in those things relative to our performance because when we're good, you find ways to overcome them, you minimize, you make them less of a story. When you lose, they become the story, but they may be ever-present. I've been in this thing long enough to understand that – that nature of it, that component of it, and that's why I'm never paralyzed by it. I don't dwell on it too much. I focus on what I need to focus on and that's keeping this group moving, improving and winning because that's our business.

Just to be clear, are you aware that Ben and Antonio had any kind of a disagreement that would have caused Antonio to leave practice abruptly?
No.

Are you making changes to your staff?
Again, like I outlined, change is a part of this, particularly when you're having press conferences like today. I don't run away from that. Our staff doesn't run away from that – the evaluation process, the reviewing process, the things that we're going through as we wallow in it today. I acknowledge that change is a part of where we're headed and that I'm open to it because I'm not open to repeatedly doing this.

Was Antonio supposed to be here yesterday and didn't show up?
Correct.

Do you know where he is? Have you had any communication?
Like I mentioned, I haven't talked to him since prior to the game on Sunday. Again, I wasn't here yesterday.

Was he supposed to be here yesterday?
I wasn't here yesterday.

Was he supposed to be here today?
I wasn't here yesterday. No one was required to be here yesterday, so I don't know what the reference to yesterday is about. He wasn't here on Monday, and I didn't talk to him on Monday. I didn't talk to him after the game on Sunday. I talked to him prior to the game on Sunday, and to be quite honest with you, I wasn't looking for conversation with anyone in a professional way yesterday.

While you're still in the process of gathering information of how to change things going forward, when you consider the Antonio Brown situation, do you consult players on that? Will you want your veteran players to give you their thoughts on whether they want to play with him?
Most certainly, I don't hate perspective. I don't care where good ideas come from. You can't have that attitude when you're singularly invested and focused on being better and winning which we are.

Does it bother you that Antonio is on Instagram now sending out messages while you're hosting this press conference?
Guy, social media and stuff like that is a part of our world today. I think I'm really consistent in here when I don't give it a lot of credence and I don't respond to it. I understand it may be a part of your world and elements of it may be a part of your world when convenient, but I'm just not getting into that. I don't, man. I've just got too much respect for this venue, this space, this profession and the level at which we do it. I don't care about some of those things that may seemingly, when appropriate be important like social media and people's participation in it.

When you do communicate with him, what would you like to hear him say?
I'm not going to frame any anticipation and things of that nature. We're going to have a conversation I'm sure. I want to get around to it, but I'm doing things, obviously, with a lot of people within our organization professionally in terms of assessing what transpired and why. So, it will occur. I'm sure it will occur in the upcoming days.

Inside linebacker was a questionable position at the beginning of the season. Do you think Jon Bostic and Vince Williams stepped up and played well enough?
I love what they were willing to do, the way they approached it, but I'm not ready to assess or evaluate any element of play in a significant way in this setting. We're just beginning the process of evaluating and assessing. So, I can give you a canned answer. I can give you something of that nature, but legitimately assessing it and framing it in the ways in which it needs to be framed, I'm not going to get into that today. I'm looking at a thorough review of all components of our team, and obviously inside linebacker is a part of it. I appreciate the contributions of those men. They had their moments; they really stepped up and delivered in a lot of way. But I'm not ready to assess, and particularly assess, in the ways that would lead to laying a foundation for '19 and talking about needs and things of that nature. We're just not there, and we're not going to be there because of the things I've outlined to this point regarding where we are and how we need to look at time specifically in the short term.

What would you need to see from Antonio to know that he can be a reliable member of this team?
Again, I'll cross that bridge as we begin to address that circumstance. What I wanted to do with you guys was outline in great detail what transpired with transparency and why we did what it is that we did relative to his availability and the listing of the injury and things of that nature and what's transpired subsequently. Obviously not a lot of information and things have transpired since the game. I wish that was a significant issue for him and for us, but that would include us being prepared to play a game this weekend, and obviously we're not.

Do you have any plans to negotiate with Le'Veon Bell, or is that relationship over?
Again, like I outlined to a question over here, we're just in the process of assessing and reviewing what happened in '18 and appropriately so, and we're going to pause before we start talking about the development of '19 and that includes any and all potential free agents and things of that nature from a personnel standpoint, from a coaching standpoint. I just don't have a lot of those answers as I stand here today and really don't want to speculate a lot because if you're legitimately open to doing what's necessary, that we're not here next year this year, then you better leave it open-ended and we intend to do that.

You've been Antonio's coach his whole NFL career. Does this affect you personally at all?
You know, there's disappointment, there's no denying that, but on a personal level, I've just learned over the course of time, man, forget my personal feelings about things or the challenges that come with the position. I don't spend a lot of time focused on that. I better not. I better focus on issues and the people that I serve as a leader and the group and making sure that we're positioning ourselves with being the best. That's why I hesitate when you ask that – because I don't know how to answer it because I don't spend a lot of time dwelling or focused on that.

Halfway through the fourth quarter, a Steelers' fumble recovered by Cleveland, led to Browns RB Carlos Hyde scoring a touchdown off a 1-yard rush. Cleveland tied the game just before the two-minute warning with a 17-yard touchdown reception from Taylor to WR Josh Gordon.

Tied 21-21 with 0:23 remaining in regulation, Steelers DB Cameron Sutton intercepted a pass intended for Gordon at the Pittsburgh 8-yard line to force the game into overtime.

In overtime, the Steelers drove down to the Browns 24-yard line to set up a 42-yard field goal attempt, but in the pouring rain, the kick by K Chris Boswell sailed wide left.

GAME #15

NEW ORLEANS 31, PITTSBURGH 28
DEC. 23, 2018
MERCEDES-BENZ SUPERDOME (73,086)

NEW ORLEANS, La. – Despite finishing the game with a 300-yard passer and two 100-yard receivers, the Steelers fell to the Saints 31-28 on the road in Week 16.

Pittsburgh's first two scores came off field goals of 49 and 30 yards from K Chris Boswell. Trailing 14-6 in the second half, the Steelers tied the game with a 15-play, 97-yard drive that culminated in a 3-yard touchdown pass from QB Ben Roethlisberger to rookie RB Jaylen Samuels followed by a successful two-point conversion.

New Orleans took back the lead with a field goal before halftime and added seven more points on the opening drive of the second half, but touchdown passes on back-to-back drives from Roethlisberger to WR Antonio Brown gave Pittsburgh a four-point advantage going into the final quarter.

After forcing a turnover, the Saints set themselves up for a 50-yard field goal attempt, but the kick was blocked by Steelers LB L.J. Fort, preserving Pittsburgh's four-point lead. But after a fake punt failed to give the Steelers a first down on 4th-and-5, the Saints took advantage of a short field and scored a touchdown on a 1-yard pass from QB Drew Brees to WR Michael Thomas.

Trailing by three with 1:25 remaining in the game, the Steelers drove down to the Saints 42-yard line, but New Orleans forced a fumble recovered by Saints LB Damario Davis to end the game.

Roethlisberger finished the game with 380 passing yards, three touchdowns and no interceptions. Brown led all receivers with 14 catches for 185 yards and two touchdowns, while WR JuJu Smith-Schuster caught 11 passes for 115 yards.
